by reference, the words and terms used in this Ordinance have the following meanings unless otherwise specified herein.

Adequate channel: A natural or manmade channel that will convey the designated frequency storm event without overtopping the channel bank nor causing erosive damage to the channel bed or banks. For manmade channels, the ten-year frequency storm is used to verify that stormwater will not overtop the channel banks, and the two-year storm is used to demonstrate that stormwater will not cause erosion to the channel bed or banks. For natural channels, that channel capable of conveying the runoff from a two-year storm without overtopping its banks or eroding the channel lining, or without causing flooding of structures from the 100-year storm event.

Administrator, VSMP: The Administrator of the Town of Warrenton Virginia Stormwater Management Program.

Agreement in lieu of a stormwater management plan: A contract between the VSMP authority and the owner or permittee that specifies methods that shall be implemented to comply with the requirements of a VSMP for the construction of a single-family residence; such contract may be executed by the VSMP authority in lieu of a stormwater management plan. This differs from an Agreement in lieu of an erosion and sediment control plan.

Applicant/Developer: Any person, his Agent, or his assigns submitting a stormwater management plan for approval.

Channel: An elongated depression having a definite bed and bank which serves to confine the flow of water.

A complete control section is independent of downstream conditions and is effective at all stages. An overflow dam or rock ledge crossing a channel are examples. Control sections may be either natural or artificial.

While an infiltration facility may also be equipped with an outlet structure to discharge impounded runoff, such discharge is normally reserved for overflow and other emergency conditions. Since an infiltration facility impounds runoff only temporarily, it is normally dry during non-rainfall periods.
